A History of Success
Since 1993, Western Environmental Law Center has used the power of the law to defend and protect the American West’s treasured landscapes, iconic wildlife, and rural communities.

Our successes include nearly two decades of legal victories defending the ancient forests of the Pacific Northwest; preserving thousands of miles of rivers and streams by securing Wild and Scenic River designations; protecting western residents from emissions of deadly toxins like dioxin and E. coli bacteria to our air and waters; returning Mexican gray wolves to the Southwest; permanently protecting the 100,000-acre Valle Vidal in New Mexico; and preventing the production of climate-altering greenhouse gases from the oil and gas fields and coal plants of the West.

“We know of no more tireless and successful protectors of the American West than the Western Environmental Law Center. They deserve our utmost thanks and our greatest possible support.”

Bruce and Edie Anderson
WELC supporters since 1994
Connection
We live here in the West, forging connections to both our natural environment and the communities we work to protect. These connections allow us to deeply understand the issues we face and how to best achieve high impact solutions. Our talented staff is dedicated to preserving the unique and rugged beauty of the West for you, your children, and your grandchildren.

Experience
Our team of attorneys and policy experts in Oregon, Washington, Montana, Colorado, and New Mexico has over 150 years of combined experience. We work in all three branches of government at the national, regional, state, and local levels. Our unique blend of law, conservation biology, and environmental policy expertise allows us to strategically and successfully address major environmental issues in the West. We are capable of taking on the toughest of challenges — and winning.

Partnership
We represent and work collaboratively with over 100 conservation groups across the country. As a public interest law firm, we do not charge our clients and partners for services, but rely instead on charitable gifts from individuals, businesses, and foundations to accomplish our mission. Our supporters play a vital role in our success. We welcome your partnership.

Join us at www.westernlaw.org

We Defend the West

Connection

We live here in the West, forging connections to both our natural environment and the communities we work to protect. These connections allow us to deeply understand the issues we face and how to best achieve high impact solutions. Our talented staff is dedicated to preserving the unique and rugged beauty of the West for you, your children, and your grandchildren.

Experience
Our team of attorneys and policy experts in Oregon, Washington, Montana, Colorado, and New Mexico has over 150 years of combined experience. We work in all three branches of government at the national, regional, state, and local levels. Our unique blend of law, conservation biology, and environmental policy expertise allows us to strategically and successfully address major environmental issues in the West. We are capable of taking on the toughest of challenges — and winning.

Partnership
We represent and work collaboratively with over 100 conservation groups across the country. As a public interest law firm, we do not charge our clients and partners for services, but rely instead on charitable gifts from individuals, businesses, and foundations to accomplish our mission. Our supporters play a vital role in our success. We welcome your partnership.

Join us at www.westernlaw.org

© iStock Photo / Michaelsvoboda © iStock Photo / Bronswerk
© iStock Photo / Redmal © iStock Photo / Joseph Gareri © George Wuerthner
© Brett Cole Photography © iStock Photo / Dennis Burns